In Honor of Dr. Denny
Saturday's Lynchburg News.

A banquet was given at Hotel Carroll last evening by the Lynchburg alumni of Washington and Lee University, in honor of the president of the University, Dr. George H. Denny. Besides the alumni, one or two invited guests were present.

In the discharge of his duties as president of the University, Dr. Denny has made a most favorable impression upon the public and has won the confidence and esteem of the students and of their parents. He has shown himself to be an educator of ability and an executive of energy and sound judgment. Under his management, Washington and Lee University has taken on new life, and its prospects are brighter than ever before.

Dr. Denny responded to the toast, "Washington and Lee of today: Cherishing the heritage of a noble past, rejoicing in a prosperous present, and brave with the hopeful expectation of a splendid future."

President Denny in his address reviewed the great advance made by the University in the last few years. He pointed out that over $400,000 had been added to its endowment very recently, and showed plans drawn by an architect for a new dormitory, a hall for the department of economics, and a large new science laboratory. He alluded to the fact that the matriculation was now double that in former years, and spoke of the high moral tone which prevails in the University and its environment.
